Recommendation Letter for Honey Kirstine Serdenia Malonzo

February 01, 2012

To whom it may concern:

Honey worked for us at BlueBat Games for one year. During my time as her manager Honey displayed exemplary dedication to her duties. Honey is a results driven individual that takes great pride in her work. She was driven to constantly improve her skills and consistently proved to the management team that she could be trusted with additional responsibilities.

Honey was always willing to meet any challenge and displayed excellent communication skills. She worked collaboratively with her team and was always willing to help others when she could.

Honey's illustration skills are excellent and she was part of a team that created an exceptional prototype of our game when he was given a tight deadline. Her design skills have improved immensely, and she is a delight to work with. Honey is also very creative and is able to take in inspirational/reference art and use that to create something that is unique and original.

If presented with the opportunity in the future I would have no hesitations hiring Honey again. I am confident that Honey is a quality individual that is driven to succeed at whatever endeavor he takes on. As such I feel that Honey would make an exemplary addition to your team.

Regards,

Kenny Huang
